Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/13/07 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-5 and 7-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 6,725,490 to Blaustein et al.

Blaustein discloses a device capable of buffing/cleaning a tooth or skin, the device comprising a handle portion 817 with at least a portion of a control interface 819; a head portion 816 with at least a portion of a drive assembly 1818 operatively connected to said control interface (Fig. 17); and two buffing pads 814, 1810 being operatively connected to said drive assembly (Figs. 17 and 18), wherein said pad 1810 releasably connects to said drive assembly (col. 10, lines 37-47) and wherein said drive assembly causes said one or more buffing pads to move in at least one rotational direction and at least one linear direction (rotary and reciprocating, see Figs 17 and 18); col. 2, lines 64-66); wherein said buffing pads have an abrasive surface (toothbrush bristles are abrasive); wherein said drive assembly causes said one or more buffing pads to move in one or more directions (rotary and reciprocating); wherein said drive assembly causes said one or more buffing pads to rotate in one or more directions (rotary and reciprocating); wherein said drive assembly causes the buffing pads to move in an arcuate, reciprocating manner; wherein said one buffing pad includes a raised bristle structure; wherein said raised bristles of pad 814 move independently from the bristle structure of pad 1810; wherein the pads are viewed as rollers; wherein the device further includes flexible wiper strips 815 capable of removing debris; wherein the head is attached to the handle via an elongated arm.

It is noted that the introductory statement of intended use and all other functional statements have been carefully considered but are deemed not to impose any structural limitations on the claims distinguishable over the prior art, which is capable of being used as claimed if one desires to do so.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 and 7-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
